Venustiano Carranza lapbook

Read and write.

Venustiano Carranza was born in Coahuila in 1859. He was a Mexican politician and soldier. He took part in the Mexican Revolution and was one of the main leaders of the Mexican Constitution. In 1913, he fought against Victoriano Huerta. He made a strong movement that wanted to bring back order and law in Mexico.

In 1917, he created the Mexican Constitution. This document was new and important because it included social rights, like free education, land for farmers, and worker protection. Venustiano Carranza was president until 1920. That year, he was killed in Tlaxcalantongo, Puebla, after losing political and military support during a new rebellion.
